Company has found seniors helping fellow seniors has a lasting impact

In-home care for senior citizens is nothing new, but one local couple has introduced a unique approach, in which seniors are provided the help they need by fellow seniors.

After decades of social service work, owners Brian and Rita Sanders decided to get involved with the company known as Seniors Helping Seniors, which was founded in 1998.

"I really hope to raise the quality of senior care to a new level," Brian Sanders

According to Brian Sanders, the company was co-founded by Kiran Yocom, who spent time working alongside Mother Teresa.

"That was a big selling point," Brian Sanders said. "We felt it was just the right fit for us."

He believes that what makes the process work so well is the simplicity behind pairing more active seniors with those who are less active and therefore in need of assistance.

"Because the caregivers are aging themselves, they can often relate to the hardships and pain the seniors in need are going through," Rita Sanders said. "They develop a bond and relationship."

Another area where the Sanderses have seen a difference be made by placing seniors in the caretaker role, is with the passion dedicated to the role.

...A WAY TO GIVE AND TO RECEIVE®

"The biggest problem with this type of service today is people not putting in the proper work ethic," Brian Sanders said. "By using seniors, we are nine times more likely to have people show up when they're supposed to and be ready to help."

Despite the approach being so unique, the Sanderses have not had difficulty finding people who want to be a part of the program.

"We have 40 or 50 people right now chomping at the bit to help and get to work," Brian Sanders said.

However, with the service still being new to the area, the number of seniors in need of assistance that have joined the program does not yet equal the demand of those that have shown interest in being a provider.

"I was really blown away by the response we've gotten," Rita Sanders said. "Especially with us still just introducing it. It is more like a family atmosphere to ensure mutual trust and open communication with everyone involved."

Brian has 36 years of social service experience under his belt, while Rita began her service work years ago as a nurse in her native Hungary.

Although Seniors Helping Seniors assists people across the First Coast, Ponte Vedra, Nocatee and The Beaches was an area they believed they could make a definite impact.

"We are still a new and growing company," Brian Sanders said. "Our employee rate changes constantly; however we have been managing Empowerment Programs, Inc. with 70 employees, serving people with disabilities since 2000 providing many similar services."

Brian initially realized the need that existed for a better way of in-home senior care after searching around and doing research for his grandmother before she died a couple of years ago.

"She was a catalyst during this, because I couldn't find what I was looking for out there," Brian Sanders said.

By being there to provide the aid needed, Brian Sanders hopes that will allow seniors to remain in their homes instead of a nursing home for as long as they can.

"It was heartbreaking to hear about the seniors who passed away during COVID without their family by their side," Rita Sanders.

In-home care can present so many ways to help including providing personal care, companionship, running errands, meal preparation, transportation, light housekeeping, mobility assistance, doctor appointments, socializations and even 24-hour care.

"We want to make a community difference," Rita Sanders said. "It's more than just a business, it's a family and friend environment instead of a work environment."

"Movie: Blazing Saddles"

Mel Brooks' 1974 Western spoof is one of filmdom's funniest flicks from one of its funniest directors. Harvey Korman is at his best as corrupt attorney general Hedley Lamarr, who wants to gain control of the soon-to-be-valuable land in the lawless town of Rock Ridge. Cleavon Little, Gene Wilder, Madeline Kahn and Brooks himself also star.

"Movie: A River Runs Through It" Robert Redford's nostalgic 1992 drama is about fly fishing ... in the same way "Million Dollar Baby" is about boxing. In other words, it's about much more. Oscarwinning cinematography frames the tale of Norman Maclean's turbulent relationship with his brother in early 20th-century Montana. Brad Pitt and Craig Sheffer star as the sibling rivals, while Tom Skerritt plays their stern minister father. Brenda Blethyn co-stars.

"Movie: Crimes of the Future" From writer/director David Cronenberg ("Maps to the Stars," "Crash") comes this 2022 horror yarn set in a future where humanity is adapting a synthetic environment and a celebrity performance artist showcases the metamorphosis of his body and organs. Viggo Mortensen,

Lea Seydoux, Kristen Stewart and Scott

Speedman head a solid cast.

"God Forbid: The Sex Scandal That Brought Down a Dynasty" A Miami pool boy finds himself trapped in a seven-year affair with a charming older woman and her husband, televangelist Jerry Falwell Jr., as he becomes increasingly entangled with the Falwells' seemingly perfect lives in this documentary from director Billy Corben ("537 Votes,"

"Screwball"). (ORIGINAL)

BY GEORGE DICKIE

'Tiffy Cooks' and seeks to prove that you can, too

Tiffy Chen is all about street food. For her, the fare to be had from food trucks and street vendors represents simple, affordable dishes at their best, food made from the best ingredients by home cooks who are passionate about what they do. It also serves as the inspiration for the recipes the Vancouverbased content creator and blogger creates for her "Tiffy Cooks" videos on YouTube, TikTok, Pinterest and Instagram.

"It's like eating your family's and friends' best home recipes," Chen says of street food. "It kind of feels like a little hidden secret even though a lot of these are like super, super popular stalls but it feels like you really found like a gem. They usually do one to two things really, really, really well. Like they do them a lot of times and that's usually their passion, is that one to two dishes and they really perfect it."

In her videos, the key is simplicity and accessibility as the Taiwan-born and -raised Chen prepares mainly Asian dishes ranging from Mongolian beef, garlic steak and chicken dumplings to cold sesame noodles, chewy taro balls and green onion pancakes, recipes that she also posts on her blog. And the best part is they can be done with easy-to-find ingredients, a trick she learned at college when authentic ingredients were scarce.

"You can really customize it at home the way you like it and based on your dietary restrictions," she says. "So I share like tons of gluten-free recipes. ... I can veganize a dish. ... You know, it might not be the most authentic way to make it because you may need certain ingredients but just customizing and having fun with it, I think, that's really what I believe when it comes to home cooking and cooking in general."

Chen's story is pretty extraordinary. Like a lot of people, she started really getting into cooking during the pandemic and made a video for family and friends. The morning after she posted it, she woke up to find it had 200,000 views, which spurred her on to do even more. Soon she had a bonafide following and she consequently quit her corporate job to become a full-time content creator.

Now she makes about three videos a week and wants to help others to follow in her path.

"On my blog, I share not only recipes but I also share a lot of tips and tricks on how to actually become a food blogger," she says. "I share a lot of behind-thescenes ... I share all my income reports there. I share how I got started and tricks and tips that people can kind of go look at if they're also interested in getting started."
