Starz gives 'Dangerous Liaisons' fresh life

"Dangerous Liaisons" has been told in both classic and contemporary versions, and now, there's a new chapter to the tale.

Premiering Sunday, Nov. 6, a same-named Starz series is a prequel to the famous Pierre Choderlos de Laclos novel, examining how Camille and Valmont – played by Alice Englert and Nicholas Denton – initially became manipulative, power-driven young lovers in the era of the French Revolution. They tried to keep each other in check while insinuating themselves into the lives of others, over whom they exerted cruel control. Oscar nominee Lesley Manville ("Phantom Thread"), Kosar Ali and Carice Van Houten also star in the drama.

"I think it's full of universal themes," says executive producer Harriet Warner, who devised the new drama and also wrote much of it. "It's sex, privilege, poverty, class, love ... and, above all, power. And I think also that story of a woman navigating a man's world is hugely powerful today, as well as (maneuvering through) that very divided society between rich and poor that has great resonance now. It still packs a real punch."

Actress Englert agrees, as she inherits the role played by Glenn Close in the 1988 "Dangerous Liaisons" film and by Sarah Michelle Gellar in 1999's "Cruel Intentions" modernization. "What's interesting about the story," she reasons, "is that if it's not love, it's war. And if it's war, is it love? Love kind of is not nearly as interesting as what these two people have between each other."

Denton was surprised to land the part of conspiring schemer Valmont, which he got from testing for something rather different. He explains that he read for HBO Max's "Gossip Girl" remake "well before the season (of 'Dangerous Liaisons') was going to shooting. They were like, 'OK, you're kind of on for "Gossip Girl," but you've got some potential to be Valmont in "Dangerous Liaisons." 'Then it was just this long process of forming that, and that was a testament to (the producers) for taking a chance."

Also an executive producer of the piece, award-winning television veteran Colin Callender ("Angels in America," "John Adams") likes backing up "Dangerous Liaisons" to a point preceding the story that readers and viewers know.

"By the time you begin to meet these characters," he reflects, "you have a sense that there's a depth to them and there's a history to them. And they have a history that in some cases haunts them, and in other cases drives them to do sort of difficult and complicated and messy things. Harriet rooted the characters in a way that isn't quite there in the book, and that was a glorious invention. And it's actually what makes the show so much fun."

"Movie: The Way, Way Back" Writer/directors Nat Faxon and Jim Rash earned critical kudos for this 2013 comedy-drama centering around a youngster (Liam James) who feels out of place while vacationing on the Massachusetts shore with his mother and her boyfriend (Toni Collette, Steve Carell). He finds a kindred spirit in the manager (Sam Rockwell) of a nearby water park. Allison Janney and AnnaSophia Robb also star.

"Movie: Desperado"

Antonio Banderas makes his debut as an action hero in this 1995 Western from director Robert Rodriguez. A sequel to "El Mariachi," the film follows a guitar-toting gunman as he sets his sights on a drug lord. Cheech Marin provides a few laughs in his bit role as a bartender; Salma Hayek also stars.

"Movie: Casino"

Robert De Niro and director Martin Scorsese yielded another memorable collaboration with this 1995 drama of racketeering in Las Vegas. The actor plays a gambling-den operator who has to ward off those who would oust him, with the love of his life (Sharon Stone) a definite liability to him. Joe Pesci, who worked previously with De Niro and Scorsese on "GoodFellas," co-stars.

"Movie: You've Got Mail"

1940's "The Shop Around the Corner" is updated for the digital age in this 1998 romantic comedy. Tom Hanks and Meg Ryan ("Sleepless in Seattle") star as business rivals having an online romance, not knowing that the objects of their respective affections are ... each other. Parker Posey, Greg Kinnear and Jean Stapleton also star.

Duff Goldman turns thespian in discovery+'s 'A Gingerbread Christmas'

Cakes," but it turns out he's a good guy Good Place"), a New York architect to have around in a pinch, too.

That was never more apparent than during the filming of the discovery+ telepic "A Gingerbread Christmas" this past spring in Montreal, when a repair was needed to a gingerbread house after a camera person had bumped into it and Goldman came to the rescue.

"It was late, it was already midnight," he recalls. "The artist who made all (the gingerbread houses) was already gone and so they're like, 'Oh my God! What are we going to do?' And I was like, 'We're in a hotel, right?' And they were like, 'Yeah.' And I was like, 'You guys, just get me some egg whites and some powdered sugar and some parchment paper and I can fix it.'

"And so, I actually had to make royal icing and fix one of the gingerbread houses in between takes You know, it actually was nice because all the actors were like, 'Oh yeah, that's what you do. OK, cool.' "

In the movie, which begins streaming Friday, Nov. 11, Goldman has a costarring role as Mark Clemmons, a food celebrity and judge presiding over a gingerbread house competition that is the backdrop for potential romance

Duff Goldman is not only an "Ace of between a contestant (Tiya Sircar, "The helping out at her dad's failing bakery, and a local contractor (Marc Bendavid, "Good Witch") helping to spruce up the place.

> For Goldman, this isn't his first film role. He had a bit part as a clown in the 2010 comedy "Below the Beltway" and another small part that same year in the romantic comedy "You Again" that wound up on the cutting room floor. He's also done voice work in the TV series "King of the Hill" and "Star Wars: The Clone Wars."

And then, of course, there are all his baking series efforts including "Ace of Cakes," "Kids Baking Championship," "Buddy vs. Duff" and "Holiday Baking Championship," which by the way has its season premiere Monday, Nov. 7, on Food Network and discovery+.

Meanwhile, Goldman has enjoyed his acting experiences and would like to do more, though maybe not as a baker, lest he be typecast.

"Maybe next time I could be like I'd like to play like a car mechanic or like the guy running the falafel cart or something," he says. "I think I could pull that off."
